

Brenda Kaye Perryman

June 9, 1948 - April 5, 2020

Brenda Kaye Perryman died on April 5th, at the age of 71.

She was born to M.C. Louie and Pearlie Louie in Kingstree, South Carolina. She received her Bachelor and Masters degrees in Speech, Dramatic Arts and Education from Eastern Michigan University. During her undergraduate studies, she became a member of a sorority (Alpha Kappa Alpha), where she learned more about commitment, dedication and purpose.

Brenda was a beloved mother, grandmother and distinguished member of the community. She was selfless in dedicating her time to mentoring others and uplifting the city of Detroit. Above all else she loved her family.

Brenda had a passion for teaching and the arts. That passion steered her to a forty-year influential teaching career as a high school English, speech and drama teacher at Highland Park and Southfield High Schools. She also taught speech and drama at the collegiate level.

The scope of Brenda's career was recognized locally, nationally and world-wide. She was a dynamic performer, author, director, acting coach, poet and host of a syndicated television show. Brenda was a true servant in using her life to help others achieve their goals. Her dynamic, vibrant spirit will be missed by countless people.

She is survived by her Mother; Pearlie Louie; three children; Heather (Airrion), Ryan (Laura) and Courtnee. She is also survived by four grandchildren: Airrion jr., Pennie, Roman and Derrick. She is also survived by siblings: Joe Burgess (Liz) and Keith Louie (Joyce)

Memorial contributions may be made to the Detroit Repertory Theater (<https://app.arts-people.com/index.php?donation=drt>) where Brenda served on the board of directors. Contributions can also be mailed to: Detroit Repertory Theater at 13103 Woodrow Wilson Street, Detroit, Michigan 48238

A larger memorial celebration of Brenda's life will be scheduled at a later date.

“ Kristyna Bradley lit a candle in memory of Brenda Kaye Perryman

kristyna bradley - March 01 at 07:17 AM

“ When I heard that my friend Brenda Perryman was hospitalized with the Coronavirus, I was concerned, but not fearful. Brenda was always so spirited and full of life, and I couldn't imagine the virus would keep her down for long. As soon as I got the news, I pulled out my phone and sent her a text. “Brenda: Michelle told me you're in the hospital. Are you okay? Wishing you a speedy recovery.” I half expected to get a feisty message back. “David, this thing is no joke, but I'm fighting!”

There was no message from Brenda, and no recovery. Last night, when my cell phone rang and I saw my friend Michelle's name, I feared the worst. Michelle confirmed my fears – Brenda was gone.

I met Brenda Perryman back in 2012 around the time I was publishing my book, “Proving Ground, A Memoir.” I don't remember who introduced me to Brenda, but I know she came to my book release party at Talullah in Birmingham, and the next morning she interviewed me on her TV show at WHPR in Highland Park. We hit it off right away, because we both grew up black in postwar, civil-rights era America. I hadn't done much media for my book, and was kind of nervous to be doing the interview with Brenda, but she immediately put me at ease. In fact, to this day, her interview of me is the best one anyone has done. That's probably because, in addition to hanging out with Kishna and me at the book party, Brenda actually took the time to read the entire book – all 488 pages! I knew then that our relationship was going to grow beyond interviewer/interviewee, and in fact in the ensuing years we became good friends.

As I got to know Brenda, I learned that she had done a lot more than host a local public access TV station talk show. Brenda had retired from a long career teaching speech and drama in the Southfield Michigan Schools. I learned that she had authored several books, had written plays, and was a poet and spoken word artist. Her weekly TV show, “Table Talk with Brenda Perryman,” attracted guests from many segments of the community and dealt with a wide range of issues. In short, Brenda was a phenomenal woman, but she was the opposite of stuffy and officious. Her engaging, playful spirit had a way of putting people at ease and bringing out the best in them.

In 2014, two years after meeting Brenda, I started an organization called the Urban Entrepreneurship Initiative. In 2015, we held a symposium in Detroit that was attended by entrepreneurs, educators, community leaders, government officials, and students. I wanted someone to interview many of our guests so we would have a record of their thoughts about elevating the city through entrepreneurship. The first person that came to mind for the job was Brenda. She agreed to do it, and she did such an outstanding job that I had her conduct interviews again in 2016 when we held the symposium in Flint. Now we have a record of Brenda's conversations with these community leaders, and it is a record that we will treasure for years to come. We will pull these interviews together and make them available on the Urban Entrepreneurship Initiative web site in the coming weeks (urbanei.org).

So in closing, let me say this: I'm an engineer, not a poet, but I think Brenda deserves at least an honest effort at versification. I think she'd appreciate that. So here goes:

Brenda –

Your spirit, your wisdom, your talent, your grace,
Your dignity and love,
Fill our sweet memories of the face,
That now resides above.

Rest in Heaven

Your friend always, David

“ To my Favorite Teacher / Mentor / Class Sponsor I'm glad that GOD saw fit to place you in my life for 30+ years. You were the best Teacher ever. Even after high school I was blessed to have had been a guest on your show, had you as the Guest of Honor at our 25th Class Reunion, even to have had honored you in our Memory book that I created as a souvenir for all classmates. I will truly miss you & never forget you because you were truly a Legend of Highland Park. Rest easy until we meet again...

Love you Always & Forever

“ Brenda and I were the best of friends! Together, we experienced school from grade 5 to college. As kids, we laughed at everything! We laughed walking to school, walking home from school, when Monsignor kicked us out of school, during class, during church service—we were just plain silly!

We experienced milestones together! For some reason, I keep remembering when we got our first pair of “high” heeled shoes. That was a big thing! It was Easter Sunday, and we were maybe 7th or 8th grade. My heels were a mere ½ inch high, but Brenda's were at least 1½ inches high! We couldn't wait to walk down the street so that we could hear our heels click against the pavement. We were happy!

We went to every Motown Review together. We always stayed for two shows, and the second show was always enjoyed from front seats!

She was the only girl I ever shared a room with besides my sisters! Together, we experienced first loves (Luv!), great loves, almost loves, two marriages each, and two bitter divorces. We shared the joys and struggles of raising children. We both survived serious illnesses, and I supported her during her journey and ventures from theatre to radio, which eventually lead to television.

Brenda Perryman, my friend, Rest in Peace for you will always be with us!

With love,
Kay

“ I met Brenda Perryman through my Sister. Who was friends with Courtnee and Heather. I always heard about how amazing she was. And that she taught at Southfield High School. Later I moved down the street from her and we became neighbors. I also learned that she wrote wonderful poetry. When I turned 50, Brenda Perryman was the first person. I thought about to be a part of my celebration. I asked her and without hesitation she said yes. She would be happy to perform her Poetry at my party. People talked about how nice my party was for weeks afterwards. Brenda Perryman left a great legacy, that will live on forever.

Your plays were legendary at Southfield High, I would pass out programs, work the box office or whatever I could do, just to be apart of your Broadway standard plays. You gave students the confidence to believe in themselves and their test their abilities. You are the epitome of an Educator. May God continue to bless your family and all who had the privilege of coming in your presence.

“ I first became aware of Brenda when a friend took me to see the last performance of Dreamgirls by her drama class. I also believe she did a play about Mary McCloud Bethune in Highland Park. I was to meet her years later as a guest on her cable program and at the Detroit Repertory Theatre. I connected with her spirit and was always happy to make contact with her and talk with her. The last time we met was at physical therapy just by chance. I have an image of her walking away. I will always remember her with respect and love. She always treated me like I was special.

“ Brenda was my second wife as I always referred to her. I had the honor of teaching and coaching her children at Oak Park. Our relationship lasted long after her kids left Oak Park Schools. She entrusted to me her children and there is no greater honor a teacher could have as she received thousands of other people's children too. A master educator, talented in so many areas. She belonged to all of us as we looked to her for her guidance and wisdom. Our society, community and world was a better place because Brenda was in it.

“ I loved this woman.
I admit, when I was first introduced to her, I was a little frightened of her, because she intimidated the hell out of me. She was so strong, she was Hera strong.
I don't know when it happened, it was only 4 years ago we met, but it was fast, when she actually became one of my favorite people on the Detroit Rep Board and part of my Theatre family.
I am terrified of public speaking and interviews, but I would be really excited about going on her show, despite the fact that it was always at the crack of dawn, and always told my actors they were going to have a good time talking to her too.
At board meetings I made a rule that I was not allowed to sit near her, because she would get me in trouble whispering hilarious comments continuously (yes I just got her in trouble too.)
We both loved Jesus Christ Superstar. We began singing it together from the beginning once in the theatre. I wish we could finish the whole soundtrack.

I am so sorry for Brenda's family and friends.

Brenda, we miss you already.

“ Our sweet, precious, talented Brenda. Oh how you will be missed my Gemini Sister. Thankful we have known each other for so long, always being in each other's corner. You are a gem in so many people's lives. Our birthstone is a pearl, and your pearl's of wisdom dropped so easily from your lips. Thank you for the love, for the lessons and for the time you made to be a part of our family's joy...from performing a poem at our wedding to writing Sophia a poem when she was born in 2007 that she has embodied to the bone. Thank you for always saying yes when I needed an extraordinary talent for a client activation. But most of all, thank you for loving me in a special way...like a sister, like an aunt like a peer, and most of all, thank you for being such a great friend over the years. Your love will live with me forever. Courtnee, Heather, Ryan and the rest of the family...I know the apple doesn't fall far from the tree...you were her labor of love...keep her legacy alive. “ My Dad, Mr. Charles Gordon (now deceased, June 2019 - And, former Principal at HPHS) and I (Kellie Gordon - Former Student “82” to “86”) genuinely loved & sincerely appreciated Ms. Brenda Perryman so very much. 🦋

Ms. Perryman was my Drama Teacher and I loved every minute of the class with her leading the way!! The plays were the best due to her expertise and fun loving personality.

There was always so much learning and laughter along the way. Her smile and energy was infectious and we all gravitated toward her line moths to a flame because she was filled with so much experience and so many stories of her life’s journey.

Always willing to help any of us who needed her, Ms. Perryman will always be dearly loved and so warmly & fondly remembered for her big heart, her generosity with her time and teaching, her ability to lift your mood in an instant and for creating opportunities for those of us who were ready/prepared and interested in achieving more with everything she taught us.

Blessings On Blessings to all of her Students, Co-Workers, her dear Family & Friends who will continue to love, honor, appreciate & well-remember Ms. Brenda Perryman and our time spent with her.

We will continue to spread the genuine, sincere & positive love & light, which Ms. Perryman shared with us so selflessly & so generously through the tears.

Ms. Perryman’s legacy is indeed well-known, well-established & securely cemented, cherished and forever respected.

Ms. Brenda Perryman’s loving & nurturing spirit will indeed journey onward and live on through everyone she has touched and loved for all time, without a doubt and without any limit.

Much Love to the Family. Thank you for sharing her with us for so very long.

“ I have so many memories. I've known Ms. Brenda over 42 years. She's had me on her show a couple of times. We were at a lot of the same events. She was my neighbor, mentor and friend. One memory is I had decided to honor people I know for Black History Month in 2019. Ms. Brenda was so moved that she called me and left me the BEST voice message. I still have that message saved in my phone. To hear the Joy in her voice was AMAZING! She was ecstatic, grateful, honored and humbled. She had tears of Joy. It was a memory that I'll always cherish and hold near and dear to my heart.

Crystal P. - April 08, 2020 at 06:57 AM

“ I remembered the day she walked into the halls of Navy Blue and White, the home of the Highland Park High School Polar Bears. If my memory serves me correctly, it was the second semester of school year 1970-71 (January or March). Mrs. Brenda Perryman was introduced to a diverse class of high school students, by a fellow colleague from the English Department, I believe it during the PM schedule. That experience was a breath of scented flesh air, that has welded a lifelong connection of mentorship. Mrs. Perryman taught myself and my four adult children, all graduates of Southfield High School. When she received word that I was in ministry, she candidly said to me, "I gotta come and see you get down!" LOL. I shall be eternally grateful for how Mrs. Perryman took my youngest son under her wings of mentorship, after the loss of his mother and my wife, to guide him throughout the high school years to adulthood. Thank you Mrs. Brenda Kaye Perryman ... a job well done. Kenneth J. Jenkins
