“ Elease became part of our family long before she married my uncle Elvin. She would always take unexpected pictures of the family with a big smile on her face. I am glad that I had the opportunity to see Elease four months ago for Thanksgiving. Even though Elease was sick, she was still smiling and took a picture of me, not knowing, like she always does. She certainly enjoy photography. Elease was a beautiful soul and will be dearly missed by our family.

“ Auntie, your passing took me by surprise. We spoke about natural medicine, but you never mentioned being sick. Instead we spoke of when we could travel together.

I'll cherish the time we had, my baby pictures with you holding me, and our conversations

Until that great morning, rest in peace.

“ Let it be a loving reminder . That someone is missing today. Someone my heart still holds onto. Someone who had coffee with me each morning and conversation although far away. But will be in my memory from year to year. How dearly she loved each of us, but oh how she loved us all. This is not good by , but see you later.

“ We lost such a loving spirit in my Aunt, one who cared deeply for others. She didn't just talk, she acted. According to the Bible , she is not gone forever but merely sleeping. I look forward to the time when God in his wisdom brings back all those in the grave. On account of that , I don't say goodbye but instead, "I hope to see her soon".

“ After landing a job in the Tape Library at FRBNY, Eleese took me under her wing, became my second mom, and never once let me feel alone. Over the years, she taught me how to fly—how to navigate challenges, lead with integrity, and spread my wings in both my personal and professional life. Her wisdom, her steady guidance, and the love she poured into me and my family will be deeply and forever missed.

Rest in peace, Eleese. Your love, guidance, and the wings you helped me grow will stay with me always. -Angie Jordan

Elisee was truly an amazing person who brought joy, warmth, and compassion everywhere she went. She had a heart of gold and carried a spirit that made people feel seen, cared for, and appreciated. As an auntie, she was the kind you could always count on—trusting, loving, and always looking out for everyone around her.

She had a special way of checking in that meant so much. Whether it was a simple message saying, "Just checking on ya," or asking, "How's your mom?", those small gestures showed how deeply she cared about the people in her life. Even though she lived far away, her support was always felt. Distance never stopped her from showing love and being present in the ways that mattered.

Her passing saddens my heart, but I find peace in knowing that she knew Christ and has gained her wings. She is now in a better place, resting in eternal peace. Elisee's kindness, love, and beautiful spirit will always be remembered and cherished by everyone who had the blessing of knowing her. Her legacy of compassion and genuine care will live on in our hearts forever. ☐🕊️
