“ I met Jackie when we were 11 years old. Her family recently moved into the neighborhood from Chicago. One day while playing outside, Jackie appeared with a bag of penny candy and stated, “ I have candy, can I play?” I said yes and Jackie started passing out candy to everyone there. Since then Jackie and I have been best friends, sisters.

Jackie’s soul was so giving, she always did for others before herself. Mother, sister, friend and caregiver. I will miss you my sister!!!!

“ I worked with Jackie at DHS Tireman District. One day I was at home and I knew we had new neighbors that recently move in directly across the street from me it was Jackie. We became good friends, never did she have unkind words for anyone, she was always positive, very wise and a joy to be around. She LOVED her family and her longtime friends. I'll miss you Jack

“ One of my first memories of Jackie is about 50 years ago. One day her and her siblings were home alone and they invited me over to kick it. They were new to the block and I and they knew they were not supposed to have company. But we did it anyway. So James cooked some popcorn and I already knew we was gonna have a good time. Then came the icing on the cake. They broke out a bottle of hot sauce and put it on the popcorn. I was like what in the entire frig and frack is this. I had no idea you could do that. I have been hooked ever since. Especially if you add some potatoe chips to it. Even though Jackie would be sitting down with us and sometime telling James to make another batch. She would take the mother role and say James I hope you are going to clean this up before mama get home. That is how we started and we have been the best of friends ever since. She always had my back and I will continue to have hers. Love you SisStar. Black Power. Signed Darryl L. Daniel aka Dawu Ra
