“ *Hi Ms Lucy, today I celebrate your birthday, just like last year the sun was out. I bought you a beautiful bouquet of flowers and a card fit for a Queen but I didn't know where you were resting. I'll come back tomorrow. Sometimes when I think of you which is almost everyday my tears ☐ fall because I miss the presence of your body in my sight. I remember when My mom is no longer with me but whenever I was feeling down and sometimes so sad in despair, you would always give me a hug around my shoulder and say, Baby just trust God and everything gonna be okay. You would share your life's adventures along with Wisdom. I am honored Grateful and Blessed to have you in my life-even in the Spirit. I love ☐ you more and more than I did a day ago. I just wanted to wish you a Happy Anniversary on the day of your Birth
One day I will grow up to be just like you*

“ Lucy and I were very good friends. We lived across the hall from each other at the French Quarter Apartments. When I moved, we still kept in contact with each other. I have some fond/great memories of our relationship that I will always cherish. I thanked God I was able to celebrate her Birthday this past March and she celebrated with me on my Birthday in June, we had that close connection. I am so heartbroken! My friend is not suffering anymore, and now she can Rest In Peace! Lucy will be well missed by many! Rest well my friend!

*Love you,
Gilda Thomas*
