“ HP brought us together and I shall always cherish those happy and fun times. You had a sense of humor in always telling your truth and shooting straight from the hip. I will miss you my friend. Rest in heavenly peace.

“ No one will ever know the magic of your homemade Fried Chicken! No matter what I, or anyone else tried, we could never get that flavor just right. It took me a while to figure it out, but I finally know that the missing ingredient is you, my friend. That chicken was made with Love! The years we spent laughing, remodeling the house, going to the movies, bowling, dinner out...they meant the world to me and I'll never forget you. Thanks for your time and friendship. I have no doubt we will meet again...somewhere. Till then, God bless you, LJ!

“ Ms. Lynette, meeting you over 30 years ago was a true gift. We had so many good times and a lot of laughs. You were the older sister I never had. I learned so much from you and I will always cherish how we helped each other through good times and bad. I will hold you in my heart forever. I miss our weekly conversations already. You will be missed but never forgotten.

Angela, I am here for you and your family if anything is needed. Your mom was an amazing person and so are you! Thank you for being a part of my life.

I will truly miss my friend Lynette we kept in touch throughout the years. We had lots of good times together when she was in California. We would go shopping and literally shop till we drop. We had lunch frequently, her favorite was Kentucky fried chicken. I will miss our conversations in texting. She was a trooper and kept a positive attitude about her illness. Lynette will truly be missed by many. My condolences to you, Angela, family and friends.

“ Nette, you carried your journey with such incredible dignity and a strength that inspired us all. While our hearts are heavy, we find peace knowing you are finally at rest. To Angie and the entire family: we pray that God's comfort surrounds you now, and that soon, the shadow of loss will give way to the bright, smiling memories of the beautiful life Nette lived.

Love,
Henry and Linda

“ Lynette,

You will truly be missed, my friend. Our friendship began at Hewlett Packard more than 20 years ago, and throughout that time you were always honest, direct, and someone who spoke from the heart.

I will always remember and appreciate that about you.

Rest easy, my friend.
