“ From the first day I met you in class, you were an absolute joy and FUNNY AS H**L (we know you don't cuss) LOL. Over time you became a caring friend of mine and was always helpful with whatever was needed. After my losses, you and Kathy King continued to acknowledge me and call me Hero when talking to me or about me, which upset and angered me because I did not see that as being a fitting title that I wanted for my circumstances. After expressing my feelings {&#x2122;} you stopped that LOL} and shortly thereafter started calling me Diva. I eventually accepted that nickname GRACIOUSLY {LOL} but did not realize until some clear afterthought much later how and why that came about. You took it upon yourself and decided to do that. Thank you so much for that. You obviously thought that was what I needed from you to continue some of my days in your space, and I loved you and appreciated you for that. I hope "my Marvster" will look over me, and if Jesus is at lunch or on 15-minute break, you are one of the Lords chosen to carry me the days I can't do it for myself. Hold my boys for me and behave yourself {LOL} while you're resting in Heaven.

With All My Love...
Your ESO Diva forever,

Shirley [SJ] Jones

“ I remember being a new ESO in training, and you gave me the nickname Sheila "CTM "(can't take much) Pennington. LOL. You, Queen, and everyone in the back row thought it was hilarious. You were always the peace maker in the group, and I hope you are resting in peace now.

“ We shared so many laughs and good times, where does one begin??? I remember before my ex , Dock Fisher, went on to glory how he was so jealous when you came to the house with Sandra to visit, he actually thought you and I had something going and I couldn't convince him you weren't my man but my adopted brother! How you will be missed! Rest easy, will see you again!!!!
