“ I learned of Todd's passing and it was truly a shock. I and 45 and met Todd at age 16. An incredible 29 years elapsed in our friendship. Having been married with children and living far apart there was at times some distance between us due to life circumstances. The thing is we never held that against one another. I always knew what to expect, Todd was a reliable friend who had no problem telling it like it is. No matter the topic it was always open for discussion, though I might want to be prepared. Todd would always argue his viewpoint passionately and unapologetically yet still respect the views of others. He was always jovial and looking forward to a good time. He had a great sense of humor and was always someone to talk to on a bad day, rest assured a conversation with Todd that didn't include lots of laughs was unlikely. He believed in following your gut, your instincts and living life on your own terms without apology. In recent years we reconnected and enjoyed sharing memories from the beginning of our friendship and catching each other up on the middle when we weren't in as close of contact. There are no words to say how I feel for the family's loss. Todd was a good friend to all who knew him and he will surely be missed by all who knew him. To honor his memory I say follow your dreams and cherish those you love as our time on earth is not certain so we should live life to it's fullest. RIP my friend, you will not be forgotten.

“ I remember taking care of Todd and his brother Trevin when they were babies and toddlers while their parents worked. Todd was always low key, and he liked it when I read to him. One of the many memories I have of him is when he was three-years-old. They were over at my house and my mother was busy baking several cakes. One of the pound cakes was cooling on the cake stand. Todd, who was always the quiet one, left the kitchen while I was distracted. When I found him in the living room there were crumbs all over his mouth and I immediately ran back to the kitchen to find a little hand-shaped gouge taken out of my mother's 7-up cake! My mother thought it was hilarious, saying, "That baby was hungry, don't yell at him." And she gave him another piece of cake! I will always love him and his entire family. He was such a sweet baby, my hot Toddy.
