“ Our Dad would take his children, Vernice, Shelley, Rufus James Jr. and me - Jacqueline to the Detroit River Park (Now, the Erma Henderson Park). We ran around, played on the monkey bars, slid down the slide, and swung on the swings. My Daddy would often push us on the swings until we learned how to pump ourselves. After about an hour, he called us together. Then, he walked us along the marina to look at the boats. We knew that this was the last event before we went home. Fast forward 60 years.

Vernice lived on the 11th floor of River Towers and had a magnificent view of the Detroit River as sail boats floated, speed boats sped, and yachts cruised. Many times, when I called her and asked her what she was doing. She said, “I am looking out of the window at the river and the boats.” In her 70s, she was looking at the same scene that our Daddy took us on years ago.

My big sister, Vernice, had a sense of humor, was intelligent, was a survivor and a warrior. She was a conqueror. I miss you and love you Vernice.

Hey auntie , I'm very very sad that I'll no longer get to talk to you on the phone like we usually do. I'm so happy that you were able to be on this earth and achieve so many things Luckily I have voicemails you left so sometimes I can go back and listen to your beautiful kind soft voice
