“ Hey Grandpa, I just Woke up from a nap thinking about you I miss you , I'm literally sorry that you past alone I honestly wish that we could've been there you know , I regret avoiding not to Speak to you I only thought that because I used to think grandparents will talk your head off , but I could be on the phone with a lot of my friends talking about nothing serious I just honestly wish I Took all that back and reverse it . I wish I had lots of conversations with you I wish I spent time with you like my life depended on it you know... I just really wish you was here that's all, like I wish you was here for my graduation I wish you was here when I go to college I wish you was here for when I get married or have a kid honestly I just wish you was hear for when I accomplish things through out my life... People tell me they hope I feel okay but they just don't understand how I'm feeling about you that's all especially that I lost you & Ny Other Great Grandma During around the same weak you know , honestly I started to question gods actions and decisions he make but I started to realize I rather have you in perfect shape watching over me in heaven than you in that hospital suffering and fighting , So Yeahh But I just wanted to speak to you that's all one day ima come visit you & I love you

“ I always enjoyed being in the company of Walter. On the few occasions that we played, he was my bid whiz partner and we very seldom lost. We both loved watching the Detroit Pistons. The last game we went to was in January and the Pistons lost to the Philadelphia 76ers. Walter was not happy with how the team was coached and expressed it in so many words. Never the less we still had a fun time cheering the Pistons on. To this day I have never seen Walter without a smile on his face. He loved going back and forth with his fellow ushers after church service. He will be truly missed. To the McReynolds' family you are in mine and my family thoughts and prayers and may God continue to bless you.
